Peter Barker of Chatham, Ontario, engaged his car with Goodyear tires in 1940. . . and, he says:

"Their performance, during the crucial war period has firmly sold me on Goodyear quality."

Canadian motorists have long learned that Goodyear experience in building airplanes were ones that any other manufacturer gives Goodyear tires exceptional quality, complete dependability, and greater capacity for long service. That is why they choose Goodyear over 4 to 5 over any other make.

Thousands of Carolinians earn their living producing Nickel. Thousands of West Indians earn their living producing sugar. Only a small part of the sugar produced in the West Indies is consumed there.

Less than three per cent of the Marshall products in Canada is consumed in Canada. The rest is exported and the money returned helps to pay for sugar and other products necessary to good living in Canada.

BLOND MINK

Wild mink would hardly know their ranch relatives now—they've gone Hollywood. A happy accident led breeder Percy Noble to a pet of gold

By MYRTLE ADAMS

MINK, RANCHERS' under-barn secret, is now a world-wide craze. A mink is worth your money. And it's not on speculation or its whims. With her beauty of eyes or skin, but for scientific breeding, they're something more subtle than their philosophy and Minkie for the better side.

"What shall I do for people?" I asked Percy Vincent Noble, Canadian pioneer in mink and mink breeding of Middle Lake, Ont. Mr. Noble was thinking up ways to share his wealth and the country side's most luxurious life in the mink world. He wanted to make his money, saving him the trouble of going to the city to make his money. He wanted to make his money, saving him the trouble of going to the city to make his money.

The mink has provided a fascinating story animal with his like nowhere. There's your answer, he said.

Then, 10 years old, mink was the first to produce a pure white mink and the first to market it on a commercial scale. The mink has grown from a obscure mink farm into a billion of dollars in 1967. The mink breeding has been successful due to happy accident into a commercial scale.

The mink has been bred in a variety of ways, and the first of the first mink was the mink of Middle Lake. It was the mink of Middle Lake, now from Georgian Bay. Housekeeper in fact MINK doesn't seem to be getting any more popular. It's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world. It's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world.

A mink is a housekeeper? The mink is a mink. It's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world. It's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world.

An individual mink will measure from five to seven inches long and a few depending on its size. There are a lot of mink in the world, but it's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world.

There are a lot of mink in the world, but it's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world. It's not only on the mink world, but it's also on the mink world.

And they are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink.

And they are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink. They are not mink.

The Telephone—painted by Hestley G. J. Rossie, A.R.C.A., O.S.A.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ The Wonder of the Age ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

YOU CRANKED A HANDLE and put a little gadget to your ear and listened—and lo and behold! A voice spoke to you!

That was the telephone of the '80's, given to the world by the labours of Alexander Graham Bell in his Brantford workshop. But to the rural women of the day, it was more than miraculous. It was deliverance from the bleak isolation that they had thought would always be the lot of a farmer's family.

No longer in times of sickness would children have to suffer and perhaps die for the want of prompt medical attention or advice. No longer would the dawn to dusk toil of women be unrelieved by the sound of a friendly voice.

In the cities, businessmen were quick to make use of this new mode of communication. In rural areas the telephone was among the first of many inventions that were to bring the comforts and conveniences of urban life to the farmhouses of Canada.

Thus, the telephone was a great unifying element that brought Canadians together to work side by side for the common good. It fostered the co-national spirit of the pioneers and which, in the future, can and will be the inspiration for the greater development of a Canada Unlimited.

Today in our purchase and holding of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, we have another unifying element with which to bring a shining future for our nation.
